

What did one keyboard say to the other keyboard?
Sorry, you're not my type.

Where's Spiderman's home page?
On the world wide web.

What did one mouse say to the other mouse?
I get a click out of you.

What did the mouse say to the webcam?
Cheese.

EXPLORE RETRO TECHNO
 MID 20TH CENTURY
 INVENTIONS AT THE
 SOUTH CANTERBURY
 MUSEUM ON THURSDAY
 30TH JUNE AT 3.30PM
 THINGS TO TRY, QUIZZES AND GAMES

On display in the "What am I?" wall in Retro Techno is the Nintendo Chef Game and Watch c.1981

Move the chef to catch and flip the falling ingredients before they can hit the floor!
 This game originally belonged to the Museum director, Philip Howe.

Do you like computer games like this?
 Nintendo first began releasing the Game & Watch series in 1980.

This collection of games was available on portable LCD devices, and each title featured two games and a clock.

Have a go online!!!

<http://nintendods.com/games/gameandwatch/#/games/>

to celebrate
Matariki
 - the Māori New Year -
 we made calendars

MOST USELESS INVENTIONS

Non stick Cellotape

Solar Powered Flash Light

A black highlighter pen

Glow in the dark sunglasses

Inflatable Anchor

Smooth Sandpaper

Ejector seats for Helicopters

Waterproof Teabags

AC adapter for Solar powered calculators

Fireproof Matches

Visit us in the school holidays

*See the Retro Techno exhibition

*Book in for special activity programmes (fossils, insects & more)

discount for explorers so book early more information early July at the museum, our website or school newsletters

*Try out new quizzes

*Dress up 1950s

Competition for best dressed 1950-1980 costume Friday 29 July

No
July session of the Explorers due to the change in school holiday dates but come and explore flight on Tuesday 30 August at 3.30pm

