Environment Canterbury (Canterbury Regional Council)	183.28	Oppose Hazards and Risks; natural Hazards; Mapping amendment to increase area potentially subject to flooding	Oppose	The ECan submission lacks sufficient detail to determine if the proposed expanded flooding hazard risk areas are sensible. Further, their submission mixes up the Selwyn and Timaru District Councils, and so it clearly hasn't been prepared with sufficient care or attention to detail. The submission merely states "We consider that the areas potentially subject to flooding are too narrow". Further on ECan's website https://www.ecan.govt.nz/your-region/plans-strategies-and-bylaws/what-we-know/natural-hazards/flood-hazards#:~:text=the%20Orari%20River-,Climate%20change,expected%20to%20occur%20more%20frequently. They merely state that they "undertake flood modelling across the region" but there is no criteria for what may constitute an area where a flood risk assessment is appropriate. It is important to recognise that there are costs and benefits which need to be assessed in any plan change, including the imposition of designating properties in flood assessment areas. Costs include potential impact on property values, likely increased insurance premiums or refusal of insurance, and the cost and time needed to undertake flood risk assessments. No cost benefit assessment has been made and the proposed increased Flood Risk Assessment Area affects thousands of properties. This is further justification for the proposed amendment by ECan to be ignored. The draft plan's original Flood Risk Assessment areas appeared to be more logically linked to areas where flooding is likely, and these should be retained at least until some defined criteria is developed to define an area where Flood Risk Assessments are needed, a cost benefit study is undertaken, and individual landowners are consulted by direct contact.	disallow	Retain the original proposed flood risk assessment areas, and ignore the submission by ECan to expand them.
